

AFTER SEVEN GENERATIONS OF POVERTY

You are educated when you can read, write, calculate, communicate, think, reason and use good judgement. When you can do these things, you are not just well educated, you are an asset because you are trainable.

|  |  | Generation Alpha (or Gen Alpha for short) is the one succeeding Generation Z. Researchers and popular media typically use the early 2010s as starting birth years and the mid-2020s as ending birth years. Generation Alpha is the first to be born entirely in the 21st century. As of 2015 , there were some two-and-a-half million people born every week around the globe, and Gen Alpha is expected to reach two billion in size by 2025. |
|  |  | Generation Z (or Gen Z for short), also known as Zoomers, are the people succeeding the Millennials. Researchers and popular media typically use the mid-to-late 1990s as starting birth years and the early 2010s as ending birth years. Pew Research Center specifies the years 1997 to 2010. |

|  |  | Generation X (or Gen X for short) is the cohort following the baby boomers. The generation is generally defined as people born between 1965 to 1980.[42] The term has also been used in different times and places for a number of different subcultures or countercultures since the 1950s. In the U.S., some called Xers the "baby bust" generation because of a drop in birth rates following the baby boom. |

|  |  | Baby boomers , also known as the Me Generation, are the people born following World War II from 1946 to 1964. Increased birth rates were observed during the post–World War II baby boom, making them a relatively large demographic cohort. In the U.S., many older boomers may have fought in the Vietnam War or participated in the counterculture of the 1960s, while younger boomers (or Generation Jones) came of age in the "malaise" years of the 1970s. |

|  |  | The Silent Generation , also known as the "Lucky Few", is the cohort who came of age in the post–World War II era. They were born from 1928 to 1945. In the U.S., this group includes most of those who may have fought the Korean War and many of those who may have fought during the Vietnam War. |

| |  | The Stolen Generation born between 1830 and 1883 includes beneficiaries of displaced indigenous Turtle Islanders and Free Africans enslaved by European “settlers” declaring supremacy through Manifest Destiny. During this period, indigenous tribes were unlawfully removed from their ancestral lands and forcibly relocated to federal territory west of the Mississippi River. Under the U.S. Presidency of Andrew Jackson, Free Africans lost hope, Indigenous Turtle Islanders lost freedom, and America forfeited any perceived rights as “one nation under God.” |
